

The Bloomfield Citizen.

WATSESSING AND FRANKLIN DISTRICT AFFAIRS.

Hector Galien has moved to Marey and is on the lookout for another target to shoot.

A G. McFrag contemplates going into business in Watseessing.

The solid nine occasionally assemble at the Alpine rooms on Prospect st.

H. L. Van Gieso is better at political combination than at safe-lock combinations.

Mr. Joseph Bodis has purchased the house and lot on the northeast corner of Merle and Prospect streets.

The ladies of St. Paul's P. E. church are making preparations for the annual Christmas festival.

The number of East Orange tax-payers who visit Franklin Park and the Disposal works every Sunday is unusually large.

The citizens here would contribute with pleasure towards a fund for the erection of a monument for the man who will get a post office here.

It is often asked what has become of the M. and L. S. of the Methodist church, which furnished so many pleasant evening entertainments.

John Smith the lamp lighter and Mr. Daniels Derby exchanged unfriendly comments on Friday night, owing to Mr. Derby's efforts to protect his sidewalk.

An association has been formed among the residents of Doddtown, which has for its object the removal of the several ponds in the neighborhood.

Several residences in this neighborhood have recently had their external appearance greatly improved by painter Abbott.

The property owners in the neighborhood of Grove street between Watseessing and Roselle, are going to petition for a railroad depot.

Prof. J. P. Silvermail, of Madison, assisted by the Misses Mattie and Helen Peck, and the Misses Routham, all of Madison, furnished a very enjoyable entertainment to the audience gathered in the Ferry M. E. church, on Thursday night.

H. B. Thistle realizes that the better the sewer men are accommodated, the longer they are likely to remain in the community. He has accordingly shut off his privilege afforded to the public, of driving over his property.

A social organization known as the Owl Club has been formed by the young gentlemen residing in the vicinity of Dodd street and Glenwood avenue. The following officers have been elected: President, George W. Capeland; Secretary, James Longshaw; Treasurer, John Briscoe. The rooms on Glenwood avenue have been fitted up and supplied with reading matter and other means of amusement.

There is a propensity on the part of a large number of the young men in this neighborhood to organize social clubs. There is the flourishing Myrtle, the nearly defunct Alpine and the newly organized Owl Club. While the tendency to cultivate sociability is worthy of approval, the quality of the article and the means employed are sometimes justly deserving of strict censure. It is to be hoped that the latter will not apply to the above mentioned associations.

Rev. J. M. T. Cole, who died suddenly at Spring Lake, on Tuesday night, was wellknown to the members of the Watseessing M. E. church, having often preached from the pulpit there. The deceased was a relative of Mr. A. H. Dickerson, and at one time resided on the corner of Watseessing and Bloomfield avenues. He had been a preacher for fifty years, was 70 years of age, and had filled important positions in the church.

At a meeting of the New England Society of Orange last Saturday night, a letter was received from Abram S. Hewitt, of New York, a leading official of the N. Y. & G. L. R. R. Mr. Hewitt said that the patronage of the Orange branch was not sufficient to pay running expenses. The company is willing to do all in its power to improve the facilities of this branch, and if a guarantee of sufficient patronage was given, a double track would be laid and best express trains drawn by locomotives burning hard coal would be put on. The distance from Chambers street, New York, and Main street, Orange, would be made in 35 minutes.

East Orange.

Mr. Gardner R. Colby of Harrison Street, yesterday presented a turkey to every married man among the passenger engineers, firemen, conductors, baggage-masters and brakemen on the Morris & Essex division of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad. In this way he disposed of about 300 turkeys. Mr. Colby is a director of the road, and his many generous acts have made him exceedingly popular among the boys.

Grant in Peace.

This new book of General Adam Badeau the soldier, diplomat and historian, is the most popular work now published. His great and lasting friendship and acquaintance with Grant, his confidential intimacy, and official position make him pre-eminently the proper one to write the authentic story of Grant's life from Appomattox to Mount McGregor. This book completes the Personal Memories and Life of Grant. More than one hundred of Grant's letters on a great variety of subjects are given, showing us nearly as type can do so the style and arrangement. This book treats of General Grant's relations with many prominent men, Sherman, Sheridan, Hancock, among the soldiers, Lincoln, Hayes, Garfield, Blaine, Arthur, Logan and Gladstone, among the statesmen.

Many letters from prominent persons are reproduced in fac-simile. Grant in Peace is a necessity to every owner of the Memos. Without it no person can accurately know and understand the inner life and purposes of the great hero.

The illustrations are elaborate and correct, giving the surrender of Lee, Nellie Grant's Wedding, Grant and Garfield, and others, in all about twenty Grant in Peace, is an interesting, fascinating book. M. W. Jones, Publisher, 47 Murray Street, New York.
